

think twice

On the outside, many prescription containers look alike. But quality materials and compliance with regulatory standards set Rexam's packages apart and make the difference for you and your patients.

Your patients trust you to make sure that their packaging meets U.S. government regulations. It's Rexam's obligation to ensure that the products we manufacture meet such regulations from USP to CPSC protocol ... so you can retain your patients' trust.

With media attention focused on imported products, consider whether the containers you use today are manufactured in the U.S. Will they pass USP regulations for light transmission and moisture resistance? Will they comply with CPSC protocol for child resistance? You can be assured your packaging is compliant when it's manufactured in the U.S. by Rexam.

So before you fill your next container, remember, think twice and think REXAM. We look forward to exceeding your expectations.
